

Boiler University's COVID-19 Guidelines

At this time, our upcoming classes will take place as planned. However, if you are sick or feel you are getting sick, we ask that you stay home.

WARE will be limiting the number of students to insure each person is 6 feet apart during lectures and eating.

Body temperatures will be taken upon entering Boiler University and recorded; no one will be allowed in with a temperature of 100 or higher.

Face mask or face shield required for students except when seated. Instructors may remove mask when lecturing in front of seated students.

Seating chairs in all areas spaced at least six feet apart.
Students must keep the same seating arrangement throughout the day to prevent cross contamination.

Mask or face shield are required to be worn in the lab.

Box lunches or cafeteria style meals. Server to fill plates at each request before handing plate to person. Server must wear gloves and mask.

Handouts prepared at least 2 days prior to class.

No displays to be passed around among students.

All areas used will be cleaned and disinfected at end of each day.
